

Learning Comes First Freshman Forum

- Make friends fast. All LCF3 students will live on the same floor in North Commons.
- Be part of a learning community. LCF3 students take the majority of their classes together, giving you a close, convenient study group.
- Receive a free laptop. The laptop is yours to use throughout your freshman year.
- Get tutoring in-house. Trained tutors will be on site to help when you need assistance with a course.
- Learn and play. Learning First Centers will offer group study time, including tutoring, before housing socials. Participating in the centers also earns you "extras," like more Bingo cards for Housing Bingo Nights.
- Accrue points for awards and scholarships. LCF3 students earn points for attending weekly programs on leadership and academic as well as athletic and cultural events. Those points put you in the running for housing scholarships and awards.

NORTH COMMONS

An eight-story apartment tower, North Commons combines comfort, security and privacy. Each residence has four private bedrooms with keyed locks, two baths and a living/dining/kitchen area. Each is nicely furnished and includes a microwave and full-size refrigerator.

What's more, you can come and go with peace of mind thanks to the building's security features. Entry to the building and apartments is controlled by an electronically-coded security card. Well-lighted parking areas adjoin the entrance to the building.

LIVE. LEARN. LAUGH.

Apply now!

LCF³ is open to all incoming freshman and requires living on campus. There is no additional cost. You pay only the normal rent for North Commons. But apply soon – space is limited to 48 students. You will be considered only after you have been admitted as a first-time freshman, submitted a housing application and the application fee and completed the form below, including your signature and your parent's or guardian's.

I want to be a part of the LCF3 and will complete the following to be a part of the program:

- Be admitted to AUM as a first-time freshman.
- Submit a housing application and application fee.
- Along with my parent/guardian, sign and return this card.
